Working for Others
2nd Annual Community Health Fair

On March 18, students from all of the schools on MCV Campus gathered at Armstrong High School to provide free health education and screenings to the Richmond Community. Over 200 locals attended the event and raved about the invaluable information they received. New this year, medical students provided free patient interviews. After speaking with health professionals, patients were provided information about available follow-up care in order to ensure that all of their needs were met. Being only the second year, the health fair was extremely successful. The community health fair is an excellent showcase of the ability of the various health professionals at VCU/VCV Campus to work together closely to plan and execute such a huge event.

Dear Class,

They say that a day in dental school feels like a year, and a year in dental school feels like a day. I would have to agree with them. The thing they don't say is how close you can become with the talented individuals around you each and every day. Where else can you find a group of 90 individuals all focusing on the same high reaching goal, who offer the perfect mix of intellectually stimulating conversation and quick-witted humor?

The past four years have been some of the most challenging, yet rewarding experiences of our lives. The best memories are made this way. The VCU School of Dentistry class of 2010 is a class we will never forget, and a class who will always remember what "they" say: ask not what dentistry can do for you, ask what you can do for dentistry. Congratulations D2010!

Dear Classmates,

Congratulations on all your accomplishments! The Class of 2010 has a rich identity formed by individuals from all walks of life, spanning several generations, cultures and nationalities. Despite our surface differences, our class integrated seamlessly to become a large family.

In our short time, we have certainly made our mark at the Medical College of Virginia. But even more representative of the essence of our class is the impact we have made at the local, national, and international levels. We have spent countless hours conducting bench/clinical research, volunteering in free clinics, and participating in humanitarian mission trips abroad. With such an incredible display of passion and commitment in medical school, I cannot fathom what great accomplishments lay ahead for us as physicians.

While our academic accomplishments are most impressive, what I am most proud of is the way we bonded as a class. We supported and consoled each other during the illness or loss of loved ones and together we celebrated countless milestones including engagements, weddings, and the birth of new children. Though it is time for us to go our separate ways, this collegial spirit will forever keep us united as proud alumni of the Medical College of Virginia.

Several years into this journey, we have now become physicians, but in order to arrive at this stage we required the help and support of many individuals; immense gratitude is due to our family, friends, professors, staff, and patients who assisted us on our path to becoming physicians - thank you for your prayers, words of encouragement, and moral/financial support.

Nelson Mandela once said “After climbing a great hill, one only finds that there are more hills to climb.” By completing medical school, we have reached the peak of a great hill, but many more hills loom ahead as we enter the medical field in a time of economic uncertainty and tremendous change in the medical system. Despite the tremendous challenges, I am confident you will face these challenges head-on while maintaining a love for learning, assisting the less fortunate, and providing compassionate care for all our patients.

Best wishes for all your future endeavors in life and medicine,

Medicine Portraits in Action
Dear Class of 2010,

I can’t believe that it has been four years since we began this journey towards graduation. Congratulations on making it to the start of our nursing career. I remember how excited we were to come to our first day of health assessment in our crisp new uniforms and complete lack of nursing knowledge. It’s amazing that almost three years later we have filled our brains with enough know how to go out and care for the public. I have never seen a group of students work so diligently towards a goal. Unlike other college majors, we do not work hard to get a good GPA; we have worked hard in order to have the adequate knowledge needed to care for a human life. As we journey out to our careers as Registered Nurses, we will integrate our knowledge with creativity and compassion in order provide the best possible evidenced based patient care. This level of performance would not have been possible without the amazing teaching staff we have been privileged to learn from. It is an honor and one of our greatest assets to be a graduate of VCU School of Nursing. Again, congratulations on a job well done!

Sincerely,

Portraits
Dear Class of 2010,

First and foremost I want to congratulate all of you on this great achievement! It seems like not long ago we were P1s sitting in Smith 103 learning how to do milliequivalent and milliosmole calculations... (which some of us still can’t figure out!). Over the past four years we have become involved in promoting our profession and using our skills in various venues from city-wide health fairs and legislative days to medical trips around the world. However, most importantly these past four years have helped us grow individually and together as a class in both personal and professional aspects of our lives. We have not only built and developed a solid foundation of knowledge and skills, but we have also built friendships that will last a lifetime. As our confidence has grown over the years, we are now ready and able to impact and advance the field of pharmacy.

During this time of great achievement, I believe it is only appropriate to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude towards those individuals that have helped us reach this important milestone. We would not have been able to reach this stage in our careers without the support, encouragement, and guidance from our family, friends, professors, administrators, mentors and fellow classmates. I personally would like to thank each and every one of you for the influence you had on my development and progress through pharmacy school over the past few years. I know I would not be who I am today without those experiences, and I truly appreciate your involvement in my life.

While we are closing one chapter, we must remember that we are starting a new chapter of our lives which will surely bring exciting challenges and opportunities. Whether it is continuing your training through a residency, getting another degree, entering a new job, or wherever your journey takes you, I wish you the best of luck and am confident that you will be successful in all your endeavors.

Best of luck to you and I wish you all happy healthy lives,

Dina Patel

NSRG
National Student Research Group

VCU's chapter of the AADR NSRG hopes to foster an environment at the School of Dentistry whereby students interested in enriching their dental education through research are encouraged to do so and are provided with opportunities to get involved locally and nationally. The primary purpose of NSRG is to promote student research and to act as a support network linking other dental schools and their research programs. Secondarily, NSRG seeks to generally promote the advancement of dental research and foster awareness of research and training opportunities in academic dentistry. Activities include journal club meetings, guest speakers, workshop series for abstracts, posters, and oral presentations, a semester newsletter highlighting research at the school, organizing the research portion of Clinic & Research Day, and mentorship for the VCU Health Sciences Pipeline Program.

DSD
Delta Sigma Delta

Delta Sigma Delta was the first professional dental fraternity and was founded in 1882 at The University of Michigan. We have graduate chapters in many countries along with over 30 undergrad chapters located at dental schools in the US. The worth goals of the fraternity are to keep high standards of dentistry and advocate a spirit of fraternal cooperation toward scientific, ethical and professional progress. Delta Sigma Delta was established by far-sighted professionals - men with vision- who possessed the desire to render the best dental services in the highest professional manner. It was intended to bring together not only the most talented students of dentistry while in school but by the establishment of the Supreme Chapter, it brought in the outstanding teachers and practitioners. It is an organization based on service and merit.
The Student American Dental Hygienists Association cultivates, promotes, and sustains the art and science of dental hygiene; represents and safeguards the common interest of the members of the profession; and contributes toward the improvement of public health.

The Jamaica Project

Every year, senior dental students raise the money needed to support the Jamaica Project. For three weeks during the fall semester, these students and their faculty travel to Trelawny, Jamaica. While there they provide free preventative, restorative, and surgical dental care to the local people.

Student Executive Council (SEC)
The purpose of the SEC is to uphold the interests of the School of Pharmacy student body and to serve as the sole governing group to address the following objectives:
1. Uphold the executive, legislative, and judicial powers of the VCU/MCV School of Pharmacy.
2. Act as liaisons between the School of Pharmacy.
3. To facilitate an open forum for discussion among the leaders of the student organizations, classes and fraternities.
4. To facilitate the planning of the School of Pharmacy student activities.
5. To encourage and establish standards of professionalism among the student body.

Graduate Student Association (GSA)
The objective of the Department of Pharmacy Graduate Student Association (DOP GSA) is to encourage students to get actively involved with various activities of the Department and School of Pharmacy, which would allow them to develop leadership skills.

SACGP kicked off the year raising money and participating in the Alzheimer’s Memory Walk which helped raise over $300,000. Also, with the flu scare, members of SACGP were involved in immunization opportunities. Members went to local assisted living centers and immunized many residents. In addition, the group held countless brown bag events that helped older patients understand their medications and answer any questions.

In addition to community events, the organization has also expanded to now hold more officer positions, including a class representative from each class, as well as legislative advocates who help to research policies and write letters to politicians. The group was also lucky enough to have a new sponsor, Dr. Patricia Slattum. Dr. Slattum’s passion is for geriatrics and has been a wonderful support within the organization. It has been a very busy yet rewarding year for the SACGP.

A New Beginning
By: Joanna Fuchs

As you make a new beginning in your life, Class of 2010 graduates, be aware of important things you didn't learn in school: As you pursue your dreams, remember to take time to help and serve others even if doing so slows you down a little. As you explore and develop your unique talents, remain humble, realizing that your special abilities are gifts. As life hands you challenges, welcome them as ways to become smarter and stronger. As you acquire material things, know that your most important possessions are honesty, integrity, and the desire to make a difference.

Congratulations, graduates. May your new path take you where you want to go and also bring you pleasant surprises!

Good luck 2010 Graduates! It's been a pleasure spending the past 4 years on the MCV campus with each of you.

Best wishes in all your future endeavors!

~ Jenni & X-Ray Staff ~
Dear Students:

It is a great pleasure to welcome you to this latest edition of X-Ray. Virginia Commonwealth University is home to more than 4,000 students and residents who are preparing for careers and a commitment to excellence in allied health professions, dentistry, medicine, nursing and pharmacy. Our academic schools and the VCU Health System make the university one of the most comprehensive academic medical centers in the nation.

VCU’s reputation for excellence is based on the tremendous accomplishments of both my faculty colleagues and of you, our students — and it is a reputation in which we take much pride. Thank you for choosing VCU as the place to pursue your career. I wish you success always.

Best wishes and congratulations to those who will be earning your degrees this May!

Sincerely,

Michael Rao
